Detailed Office Action

Status of the Claims

Acknowledgement is hereby made of receipt and entry of the communication filed 27 February, 2008. Applicants' election of Groups I/II without traverse is acknowledged. Claims 1-7, 17-19, and 22-38 are pending in the instant application.

37 C.F.R. § 1.821-1.825

This application contains sequence disclosures that are encompassed by the definitions for nucleotide and/or amino acid sequences set forth in 37 C.F.R. § 1.821(a)(1) and (a)(2). However, this application fails to comply with the requirements of 37 C.F.R. § 1.821 through 1.825 for the reason(s) set forth below or on the attached Notice To Comply With Requirements For Patent Applications Containing Nucleotide Sequence And/Or Amino Acid Sequence Disclosures. The sequence rules embrace all unbranched nucleotide sequences with ten or more bases and all unbranched, non-D amino acid sequences with four or more amino acids, provided that there are at least 4 "specifically defined" nucleotides or amino acids. The rules apply to all sequences in a given application, whether claimed or not. Sequences appearing in the specification (e.g., see pp. 4 and 8) and/or drawings must be identified by a sequence identifier (SEQ ID NO.:) in accordance with 37 C.F.R. § 1.821(d). Sequence identifiers for sequences appearing in the drawings may appear in the Brief Description of the Drawings. Applicants should peruse the entire specification for compliance and provide appropriate amendments to the specification and/or drawings inserting the required sequence identifiers. Extensive amendments may necessitate the submission of a substitute specification. Applicants' attention is directed the final rules which were published in the Federal Register at 55 F.R. 18230 (May 1, 1990) and in the Official Gazette at 1114 O.G. 29 (May 15, 1990). The sequence rules went into effect on October 1, 1990. The sequence rules were subsequently revised effective July 1, 1998. See 63 F.R. 29634 (June 1, 1998) and 1121 O.G. 82 (June 23, 1998). The sequence rules were further revised on September 8, 2000 to allow submissions of the nucleotide and/or amino acid sequences and associated information on compact discs. See 65 F.R. 54604 (Sept. 8, 2000) and 1238 O.G. 145 (Sept. 19, 2000). See also M.P.E.P. § 608.05 and § 2422.03. The specification is objected to because it fails to comply with the sequence requirements.

Claim Objections

Claims 1-4, 7, 17-19, and 22-38 are objected to for failing to provide a sequence identifier. Appropriate correction is required.

35 U.S.C. § 112, First Paragraph

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. § 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Enablement

Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The claims are directed toward a method of preventing or treating an HIV-1 infection by administering a CTL-based vaccine composition.

The legal considerations that govern enablement determinations pertaining to undue experimentation have been clearly set forth. Enzo Biochem, Inc., 52 U.S.P.Q.2d 1129 (C.A.F.C. 1999). In re Wands, 8 U.S.P.Q.2d 1400 (C.A.F.C. 1988). Ex parte Forman 230 U.S.P.Q. 546 (PTO Bd. Pat. App. Int., 1986). The courts concluded that several factual inquiries should be considered when making such assessments including the quantity of experimentation necessary, the amount of direction or guidance presented, the presence or absence of working examples, the nature of the invention, the state of the prior art, the relative skill of those in that art, the predictability or unpredictability of the art and the breadth of the claims. In re Rainer, 52 C.C.P.A. 1593, 347 F.2d 574, 146 U.S.P.Q. 218 (1965). The disclosure fails to provide adequate guidance pertaining to a number of these considerations as follows:

- 1) The state-of-the-art as it pertains to HIV vaccine development is characterized by a lack of success. Several factors have contributed to the failure of vaccine development including the quasispecies nature of HIV infection which leads to rapid immune escape, a lack of understanding of the correlates of protection, a lack of suitable animal models with which to test vaccine efficacy, and the down-regulation of cellular molecules required for antigen presentation and processing (Leslie et al., 2004; Johnson et al., 1992; Feinberg et al., 2002; Letvin et al., 2003; Yang et al., 2003; and Connick et al., 2007).

2) The disclosure fails to provide any working embodiments. Considering the unpredictability of the art, some type of working embodiment would be required to enable the claimed invention.

3) The disclosure fails to provide any guidance pertaining to the correlates of human protection. The claimed polypeptide comprises a modified CTL epitope. However, it is not readily manifest from reviewing the specification if the claimed polypeptides of interest can generate an antiviral response of sufficient specificity, magnitude and duration to inhibit viral replication to any meaningful extent.

When all the aforementioned factors are considered in toto, it would clearly require undue experimentation to practice the claimed invention.
